

CCUS Network Australia Membership Application

CCUSNA Objectives

- The Carbon Capture, Utilisation and Storage Network Australia (CCUSNA) is an advocacy group consisting of industry and academic organisations involved in CCUS. CCUSNA supports the capture, transportation, utilisation and geological storage of carbon dioxide (CO₂) as a means of reducing Australia's carbon emissions into the future.
- CCUSNA provides informed advice and information to industry, government and community on the principles and processes involved in CCUS. CCUSNA does not promote or lobby for individual projects.
- We welcome members with an interest in CCUS as a decarbonisation tool in Australia, including (but not limited to) emitters, capture specialists, engineering companies, utilisation and storage companies, pipeline and shipping companies, academia, research and government bodies.
- We aim to foster collaboration and innovation across Australia's CCUS value chain.
